A haunted story due to the lack of gossip at school, Spectra is looking for news for his blog. Angered by her punishment for plagiarizing an essay with a suspension from The Fear Squad, Toraly tells her a rumor about school werewolves who were fleas. As rumors send students into chaos with staying away from wolf siblings, Spectra watches what it caused. A short time later, Draculaura begins to experience hauntings, with her locker acting strangely, finding herself talking back to Mr. Rotter out of turn and someone changing her hairstyle. Claudine confronts Spectre about her post and encourages her to find truthful material. However, she runs when Draculaura, Twila, Rochelle and Serena ask her about ghosts. They follow her to the attic, and watch as she opens the door and disappears into it. Still following her, the ghouls find themselves on the skiff, piloted by the daughter of the Grim Reaper, River Styx. With her father away in Las Plagas, River has a boat to himself, even installing a confetti cannon on him. The spectres appear and are shocked by their presence, and explains about the world of ghosts, where most ghosts live because of the stigma of their haunts. River explains that the boat leads them in Haunted High, Spectre's old school. River asks what brought them here, and Draculaura explains his ghosts. River finds that impossible, since there was no haunting with the notorious Red Lady, a ghost who could easily navigate between a ghost and a monster of (solid) worlds until she was apprehended and imprisoned to work out her crimes. The boat falls victim to a pirate ship, The Salty Ghost, led by the ghost pirate Wandala Doubloons, and her pet cuttlefish Ai. However, Vandala becomes a seasickness and is afraid of solid, inhabitants of the world of monsters. Dressing up in reaper clothes, ghouls enter the school (although the doors should be open and not phased out because of ghouls being solid, not ghosts). Spectre recalls in his old school, but shocked to see the number of students draped in chain custody, handed out by Chief Revenant and Ghosts Ghosts, who serve as the Hall of Moanitors. They go to the criterion to find out the culprit is chasing Dracula. There they meet Spectre's old best friend, Kiyumi Haunterly, the daughter of Nopper-Beau, a faceless ghost who has gone from shy to the most popular ghoul at school. Draculaura seems to know Kiyoi, but she rejects it and flies away. Their attention then turns to Porter Paintergeist Geist, the son of a poltergeist who vandalizes vines with ghost paint that quickly evaporates, though students cheer him on as he does so. Hall Moanitors catch him in the act, and shackle him after he crashes into Spectra, who is thought to find a scoop in the ordeal. When Spectra explains that she is not a student at this school and away from the monster Revenant has the rules changed, and reveals her friends as solids. They run, pursued by groans who discover that the chains do not work on solids. They return safely to Monster High, but Spectrum is chained and dragged back to Haunted High. To return to the ghost world Twyla takes them to the Boogey Mansion to look for the right Boogey Sand to turn them into ghosts so they can move around the ghost world undetected, especially since she knows which Boogey Sand will return them to their normal self afterwards. In the process, Rochelle accidentally turns into a monster drop before Claudine sneezes the right powder over them and they turn into ghosts, although floating harder than it seems. Dragged into the Office of The Revenant, Spectrum asks about the ghosts, which the director denies. She is given 10,000 essays to do twice as her punishment, which she takes in her stride as she likes to write, something that greatly puzzles Porter. Spectre and Porter begin to stick together, and when Porter questions all the rules and detentions, he and Spectre decide to investigate. Meanwhile, The Moanitors Hall will move to Monster High and start capturing the ghost of students at the school such as Operetta, Scarah and Johnny. Once again, the ghouls meet Wandala and Kiyomy, who help them control their ghostly forms. Rochelle especially enjoys freedom with this uniform, and dives into the school pool. Without telling any information about the Revenant in the library, Spectra and Porter return to the main hall of the school, and are horrified to find numerous Monster High students chained up and met by The Revenanted High. Overheard ghost students talking about how solid want to haunt them Spectra becomes outraged, calling the talk like stupid gossip. Spectrum understands that this is the exact kind of gossip it spreads, and how hurtful it is. The behavior of the Moanitors escalates and they begin to issue chains seemingly for no reason at all. When this happens to Kiyoi, the ghouls go to protect her, bringing them to the attention of the Revenant. Seeing how the ghouls become ghosts, The Revenant demands to know how they did it, and when they refuse, gives the Moans permission to shackle them. Kiyumi protects Draculauru, and Porter takes them to a safe room, which only he knows. Spectrum admires the work of art, and Draculaura comes to the realization that Kiyumi is spying on her. Kiyomy feels bad about it, and when Spectra announces his intention to resist retribution, Porter pleads not too much, attracting the attention of others. Spectre eavesdropped on Revenant's plan to get more students stuck in Haunted High, and discovered one of the Moanitors hall. Revenant questions Spectra until Porter appears and distracts her, giving Spectra a chance to escape, though that means Porter is heavily chained. She forces him to reveal his hideout, tightening the chains, and moans to capture all the ghouls, causing The Spectra to be in Porter for sale of them. However, Porter reveals that he stole the keys to the chains, and passes all the chains to himself. While Porter stole something, so revenant, the item is a note the book Clawdeen used to document their journey to give Spectra for his blog to use as a true story rather than gossip. From this she discovers Boogey sand, and Moanitors take off on a river yacht to find it. Now freed, the ghouls are chasing them on the vandals' ship after rescuing the rest of the Monster High students held in custody at Haunted High. Spectre is left behind, however, to hear the Revenant ad, and her intention to use Boogey Sand on solids as revenge for the fact that ghosts fear them. Spectre seeks solace in the library and suddenly realizes Revenant is a Red Lady legend as she sends the Hall of Moanitors to do her job and never leaves the building. Kiyomi opens the portal and they beat the Moanitors to MH, who begin to unleash Boogey Sand through a confetti cannon on monster tall students. Vandal lands on their ship, however, and gets sand. Back at HH, Spectre reveals that The Revenant is the Red Lady. Taking this in her stride, Revenant captures the key, and sends all the chains flying on The Spectra. Haunted by Motors, Kiyumi tries to open a portal to send them back to the world of ghosts, and with the help of others and their ghostly forces, successfully. The yacht appears as The Revenant sends her circuits flying and they confuse the boat and the Moanitors. Finally, free of his chains, Revenant opens a portal and tries to enter the World of Monsters. but discovers that it still can't leave as more chains automatically appear on it. The retribution seems to accuse someone of keeping her there, but Spectra tells her she did it to herself. Because every unjust detention and unjust punishment she gave, every rumor she spread, and every lie she told, served only to wrap her in more chains, because it justified more punishment for herself. Retribution tries to deny it at first, but Spectre points out that in the depths of life, The Revenant must have known that what she was doing was wrong, and suspected that her chains were generated by her own conscience by continuing to punish her for her crimes against her students. Seeing the error of its path, Retribution repents and returns the chain, becoming its first act of true kindness (as evidenced by one connection that disappears from one of its chains). Porter congratulates Spectre for her heroism, and ghost students see how gossip is wrong. Inspired by this, Spectrum decides it's time for the students to get to know each other and they throw a party at Monster High. The Revenant works to get rid of her chains, and werecats catch sea fleas aboard the ship Vandals. Spectra and Porter draw a boat to announce their new relationship. In the scenes, the Hall of the Moanitors sneaked into the Boogey Mansion and plays around with Boogie Sand. Even after Twila found them and came back. bed, they continued the party. Characters point out the errors Why does Porter know about the secret room no one knows in Haunted High when the building was originally The Revenant's home? Even Revenant doesn't know about it? When Heath says he heard that Sio Mo didn't come to school because he had geisha lice, a little before that, Sio Moe goes to the lobby for Claudine. When Toralay told Spectre that she had been suspended from the Fear Squad for a month for plagiarism, it contrasted with her exit from the squad at The Scream Building, along with the Werecat twins. She was returned to the squad when Nefera was the team captain and cut the original squad, but nothing but the aforementioned line in this special indicated that Toralei is still in the squad now that Cleo and friends are back. Other this special was originally called Haunted Halls. Rooms.
